Computer Programs Class Sizes Are Concerns

By John P. Sawyer

Maintaining quality of education and reasonable class sizes, developing a computer literacy program and consideration of the open enrollment concept were ideas recommended in the Elementary School Study report delivered to the school committee Tuesday night by Paul Kriz and Lois Haslam.

The report marks the conclusion of long hours of work and study by parents and professionals of Andover who served on individual schools' grassroots committees and a central steering committee.

Schoolmen passed a motion to have school administrators review the study's recommendations and develop an action plan to be submitted by the first meeting in March.

Committeewoman Susan Poore pointed out that many of the recommendations will have a bearing on 1983-84 budget deliberations.

Kriz noted the Elementary Study arrived at the following conclusions:

MAINTAINING the quality of education in Andover is important;

TOWNSPEOPLE are satisfied by the basic programs and the structure of education offered in all of Andover's public schools.

The following recommendations were put forth:

CLASS SIZE should remain stable or be reduced.

AIDE TIME should be increased, if possible.

COMPUTER literacy curriculum should be developed.

TIME allotments for art, music and physical education should be increased, and each school should be brought up to the policy maximum in these areas.

SYSTEMWIDE communication plan should be developed to promote idea-sharing among schools.

MATH and science labs should be expanded as space and staff become available.

A TOWNWIDE communication showing program offerings should be published.

CONSISTENT terminology for student grouping should be developed, such as, for example, what does the word "unstructured" mean?

AN ACTION plan should be established to address the recommendations presented in the Elementary School Study.

Haslam added that the Study also recommends the following be considered:

OPEN ENROLLMENT to maximize opportunity of learning styles available to all students.

LIMITING enrollment in schools according to the size of the building, and making transfers available.

MAINTAINING the current structure in the schools, since the Study indicated satisfaction in this area.

Health Policy Adopted

Head or body lice (active pediculosis, nits or eggs) will not be regarded as a nuisance, but rather as a public health and a medical problem in Andover public schools.

The school committee Tuesday night voted to accept and implement a new policy on dealing with pediculosis that excludes infested children from school and keeps them out of school until they are free of contagion.

Schools Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert requested guidance from the school committee on the issue, stating, "We really do not have an overall policy statement."

But Chairman Richard Neal, noting an official policy was approved by the town's Board of Health, pointed out the committee would simply accept and implement the town's rules.

Schoolman Donald Robb said he wasn't sure there was any need to make the rules official school committee policy, since the matter has already been made a public health decision.

Wesson To Be Selectman Candidate

Another potential candidate for the board of selectmen has taken out nomination papers, and long-time Housing Authority member Winston Blake has taken out papers for a one-year term on that board.

Charles Wesson, Jr., 38 York St., is seeking a bid for one of two selectmen's seats up for election March 28, according to Town Clerk Elden Salter. Selectman Edward Harris is not seeking re-election, while Gerald Silverman is. Silverman has already returned his nomination papers to the board of registrars, as has candidate Kenneth Buck.

Mary Jane Powell, who was appointed to fill the seat of Housing Authority member Thomas Wallace, who resigned in May, 1982, has taken out nomination papers and plans to run for a full-five year term on the board. Blake has taken out papers to run for the term being vacated by Powell. That term has one year to go, until 1984.

School committeemen Richard Neal and Donald Robb are seeking re-election to their positions, as is Town Moderator James Doherty. Nomination papers must be filed by Feb. 14.

Treatment Plants Form Consortium

The water and wastewater treatment plants from 10 communities along the Merrimack River have formed a consortium to jointly purchase chemicals and save money. Savings are estimated to range from 10 percent to 15 percent by purchasing common materials as a group.

The idea originated at the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District. It was felt that the testing laboratories at each water and wastewater treatment facility would benefit from jointly purchasing lab supplies. However, the response from the communities was so positive that the chemicals used in the treatment process were also included.

There are presently 10 communities represented in the consortium with eight water treatment and seven wastewater treatment facilities. The combined purchases of these facilities is in excess of $1 million.

The consortium members meet on a regular basis to discuss topics of common interest. One of the benefits has been to establish communication among all of the plants. Exchange of technical information has been extremely valuable to all involved.

The consortium is preparing bids for fiscal year 1984 which will begin on July 1, 1983. The anticipated savings will benefit the communities and taxpayers involved.

Democrats To Elect Delegates At Caucus

A regular Andover Democrat Committee caucus will be held Saturday, Feb. 5, at 2 p.m. in the Andover High School cafeteria to elect delegates to the 1983 Democratic State Convention in Springfield, April 9. The convention will adopt a party platform.

Andover Recycling Efforts Unchanged By Bottle Bill

Recycling Unit

Cynthia Hollenbeck, president of Andover Recycling, and Mike Reilly of Riles Recycling check over new vehicle used in Andover recycling effort.

By Cynthia Hollenbeck

On Monday, the Massachusetts beverage container law, popularly known as the Bottle Bill, went into effect.

It provides an incentive for some beverage users to get out of a habit of littering and all to participate in reducing trash, so that local trash collection costs can be kept as low as possible. Furthermore, it is a system of recycling that the average person can easily see in action—he pays a deposit for the use of a beverage container, and when he returns it in good condition so it can be refilled or reprocessed, he gets his deposit back.

This way of recycling should prove to be very effective, but it will not eliminate the need for the recycling that Andover Recycling, Inc. has provided for the last ten years. Bottle and can deposit return and the kind of glass and aluminum recycling that Andover residents have been doing all this time are both good for the town and do not necessarily compete with one another for materials.

Andover Recycling wants townspeople to be aware how much glass is not affected by the new law: jars, jugs and bottles for jelly, mayonnaise, peanut butter, juices, dressings, wine, liquor, mouthwash, cologne and literally hundreds of products used every day. Andover Recycling strongly supported the Bottle Bill. Looking at its history and the total solid waste disposal picture, it becomes clear why.

It was no coincidence that curbside pickup of recyclables in Andover began at the same time as curbside pickup of trash. Recycling was seen then as it should be now: as the best possible way of handling discarded materials that can be reused. It keeps them out of landfill space, which is becoming ever harder to find and more expensive to use; it preserves virgin materials, more costly to process, for those products that absolutely require them; and, of most significance to most people, it saves us money by keeping our trash collection expenses as low as possible.

Putting an item in the trash is the disposal method of last resort for it: it can't be returned, refilled or reprocessed. People who throw recyclable materials away, especially when their town makes recycling as convenient as Andover does, are giving up too easily on them, failing to see that they have more than one life.

The new container legislation will probably eliminate the need for aluminum drives as they have been, but other aluminum, such as kitchenware, lawn furniture and building materials may still be reclaimed periodically. The bi-weekly glass collection may go down if only the old faithfuls contribute to it and the many households in town who have never recycled (estimates run one-half to two-thirds of the total number) do not change their habits.

However, with the probable change in this group's beverage container disposal habits encouraged by deposit-return, the larger habit of more thoughtful disposal of all glass could be formed.

Andover Recycling urges all Andover people who do recycle to encourage neighbors and friends to start. Questions from new residents and long-time residents who have never gotten into the habit are invited. Eight volunteer telephone numbers and one Town Hall number are on the blue recycling calendars available at Town Hall to those who did not receive them in the mail with tax bills last spring.

NOW THE MONEY MARKET IS OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY.

The Capital Account. The newest innovation in banking from the BayBanks—leaders in electronic banking with more than 350 X-Press 24s.

Competitive rates with no risk.

The Capital Account is BayBanks' new high yield money market account that combines a competitive interest rate with something you don't get from a money market fund. The security of FDIC insurance on investments up to $100,000.

There are also significant tax advantages when you invest in a Capital Account that give you an even greater return on your investment. The interest you earn on investments of less than $100,000 is taxed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at half the rate of a regular money market fund.

The Capital Account is also the only money market account for your personal investments that lets you have direct access to your funds through X-Press 24.

When you open a Capital Account, you get more than a safe, high return. You also get liquidity. Which means you can get at your money whenever you need to. Plus you can write up to three checks a month on your Capital Account.

Introducing another innovation— The Super NOW Account.

The BayBanks also offer The Super NOW Account for individuals who'd like to combine a competitive rate with the convenience of unlimited checking. With a $2,500 minimum balance, your funds earn interest based on money market rates and are federally insured.

Students View Spanish Dance

Andover Spanish students recently experienced two events which directly enriched their language learning. Mrs. Noella Gonzalez-Hill and Edward Bennett accompanied a group of Doherty Junior High eighth and ninth graders to Phillips Academy to view an exhibition of authentic Spanish dancing. The program was conducted by ballet instructor Christina Rubio of Phillips Academy, Andover, and her troupe of student dancers. The troupe performed several different types and styles of dance representative of various time periods and regions of Spain. Flamenco style dance and 19th century classical Spanish dance were featured. Mrs. Rubio detailed explanations, Spanish classical guitar and costuming enhanced this experience.

Spanish Club members at Andover High, six faculty members and parents witnessed a provocative event portraying Latin American history, politics and culture. Although the students' expertise in Spanish was not needed, Evita was a glamorous lesson about the appearance, climb to power, frustration and decline and eventual martyrdom of one of the world's most colorful women, Eva Peron. Dance and song were brilliantly choreographed to optimize the emotional trials of Argentina and her people during their brief, but powerful, relationship with a character of rags-to-riches fame flaunted by many of the world's oligarchs. Along with the fulfillment of a truly ingenious musical production were the echoes of potent themes—corruption of and within power, unequalled aid and care for the poor and mass-mesmerization.

Members of the Spanish Club include Amy Conroy, Augusta Dadiago, Debby Care, Janice Gable, Kathy Donovan, Patricia Gannon and Julee Mifflin. Bill Kolbe and Sally O'Brien are the club's teacher advisors.

Mortgage Seminar Conducted

J.B. Doherty Real Estate recently held a mortgage seminar at the Elks Hall in Andover for prospective home buyers. According to Chris Doherty with interest rates coming down we thought we'd further involve our prospective buyers by putting on a seminar. We drew more than 40 people and the evening was a strong success.

Commonwealth Mortgage Company vice president for the area, Tony Paciulli, spoke on a variety of mortgage subjects including VA and FHA government loans, low downpayment opportunities through conventional financing and Commonwealth's latest mortgage program known as First Choice. We had an excellent response, said Paciulli who noted that the people were truly interested in the types of mortgage instruments available to them as well as precisely how to qualify for a mortgage.

Other speakers included Michael McCracken, loan officer with the VA, Reginald Marden, Andover attorney, and Andy Noyes, an appraiser with Property Financial Services.

Helen's Central Andover Farmland Will Be Preserved

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Her grandparents came from Ireland. They built their home and worked a large farm in Andover, and for five generations their family thrived here.

Now that old Andover family has come to the end of the line, but its name will live on at the Collins Reservation — nearly five acres of woodlands near the heart of town.

Helen Collins Dooley of 66 Pine Street has donated that land to the Andover Village Improvement Society, to be preserved as open space.

"I love the woods," Mrs. Dooley explains. "I don't want any building out there. It should be for the animals, and for people. It's so important to keep some wildlife."

Mrs. Dooley and her daughter, Margaret Roberts, live next door to each other on Pine Street. Keeping just enough land for their two house lots, they have donated the back portion of their property to Andover Village Improvement Society (A.V.I.S.).

The land, which abuts Lucerne Drive and Merrimack College, includes a brook, a variety of trees, "the remnants of an old wild cranberry bog," and a host of animals — ducks, pheasants, raccoons, and a "beautiful" skunk dubbed Rosie.

And it may, in the future, include a small pond (called "Doggie Pond" on old town maps), Mrs. Roberts says. The family is trying to determine how they can give the pond to A.V.I.S. and still keep their house lots large enough to satisfy zoning requirements.

In a letter to Mrs. Dooley, A.V.I.S. President Nathaniel B. Smith wrote, "It is rare that we can find land near the center of town and so we value this parcel particularly." The society has agreed to name the site the Collins Reservation, and to make Mrs. Dooley an honorary member of A.V.I.S., "free of dues for life."

"One reason to give the land to A.V.I.S. is that I'm the end of the line," Mrs. Roberts notes. "There have been five generations, and I'm the end of it."

Helen Dooley's grandparents were Morris Collins, an engineer for Andover's Smith and Dove mill, and Mary Schofield Collins. When they came to Andover from Ireland, they built their large white house and a barn on the corner of Pine and Summer streets. (That white house, with a more recent addition, still stands at 64 Summer St.)

The Collinses owned 25 acres of farmland up Pine Street, and their children built their homes on the farm all along the street: "Aunt Mary built her house on Summer Street, and then Aunt Katie, Aunt Agnes, Aunt Maggie, Aunt Annie all built on Pine Street, behind my grandmother's house."

Helen's parents, Joseph Morris Collins and Margaret Scannell Collins, chose to build their home on the other side of Pine Street. "My grandfather chose this side because it was on a pine knoll, overlooking the pond and the brook and another grove," Margaret Roberts explains.

Mrs. Dooley has lived in that 72-year-old house since she was ten years old. Except for one year in Michigan after her marriage to James Dooley in 1918, she has lived her entire life in Andover. Thus she is amused whenever younger acquaintances offer to show her "some new road or lane they've found" in town: Her answer is always, "Oh, will you now?" she says, chuckling.

She is 84 now, silver-haired and lovely,

"and I don't feel any more than 44. I haven't had a dull moment."

She attended the John Dove School (a first-grade class portrait shows her as a somber-faced little girl with a large bow in her hair) and graduated from Punchard High. She married "very young," but later studied music and art at MacIntosh Community College in Lawrence, Boston University, and Emerson College.

Music and painting are her two "great loves," Mrs. Dooley says. She has performed in the Gardener Museum in Boston, and sung Gilbert and Sullivan operettas in Lawrence. And for 30 years she has been a painter, studying under noted artists and selling her landscapes and portraits to collectors around the world.

Mrs. Dooley was one of the founders of the Andover Artists Guild, and she recalls hosting many guild meetings in the old brown barn behind her house. In 1981, the town honored her efforts by naming her to the Andover Fine Arts Hall of Fame in Art.

Her home is filled with momentos and memories of her family history. She proudly displays a handmade wooden milking stool that belonged to her grandmother, pointing out the mark left when Dolly the cow "gave it a heave." She has a set of old sleigh bells that still sound beautiful, and hardware that was once attached to horses' bits and reins.

"I think it's important to preserve these things, important to have people see it," she says. Many of her family treasures will one day be donated to the Andover Historical Society, Mrs. Dooley says.

Some part of that history will remain forever, in a patch of woodlands just a mile from downtown Andover, where townspeople will be able to walk and picnic and enjoy what was, in Morris Collins' day, a hayfield.

That is a great satisfaction to Helen Collins Dooley, who can look out on that woods from her window, watching for her raccoons and pheasants and Rosie the skunk. "I love these woods," she says. "Our roots are here."

League Membership Luncheon

The League of Women Voters of Andover will host a luncheon for prospective members on Saturday, Jan. 22, at the home of Ann McGovern, membership chairperson, 7 Hampton Lane, at 12:30 p.m.

The Andover League was founded in 1921, just one year after the national League began. Although it began as a women's organization, the promotion of equal rights resulted in men gaining membership rights. A lowering of voting age also lowered League membership age. The current membership numbers 153, four of those being "household" memberships. During January, a half-year, half-price membership will be available to those who have never joined the organization before. The program, following the luncheon, is designed to answer questions prospective members may have. Men and women interested in attending should call McGovern.

Board members will lead the discussion which will feature the state study of health care and the national League study of national security. Voter service and citizen information activities will be explained.

The League works on all levels to promote good government. It does not endorse political parties or candidates, but does take positions and action on issues after careful study and member consensus.

New Jury Selection System For County

The Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court have designated Suffolk and Essex Counties as participating counties for the selection and management of jurors in accordance with a legislative act and committee recommendation.

Suffolk and Essex Counties will, by virtue of this designation, join Middlesex County in the one trial/one day, no exemption, computer-aided juror selection and management system.

However, because of the need for the gradual implementation of various components of the new system, jurors will not be summoned to serve under the 1982 Act in Suffolk and Essex Counties until Jan. 3, 1984.

The extension of the system to Suffolk and Essex Counties will mean that the 1982 Act will apply to three contiguous counties having 48 percent of the state's population.

Jurors summoned under the 1982 Act will be available for service in the Superior Court, District Courts, Boston Municipal Court, Boston Juvenile Court and Boston Housing Court.

The 1982 Juror Selection and Management Act is a refinement of legislation in effect in Middlesex County since 1978. It is contemplated that, in reasonable increments, the provisions of this Act will be extended state-wide within five years.

Although similar systems are in effect in some locations in other states, Massachusetts is the first state to authorize the state-wide implementation of such a system.

The prototype Middlesex County Jury Selection and Management System has been successful in providing more representative jury pools; reducing jury operating costs significantly; involving a greater number of citizens in the judicial process; reducing inconvenience for individual citizens; reducing municipal responsibilities and costs relative to support of the juror selection process; and providing more equitable compensation for jurors.

Andover Town Clerk Elden R. Salter served on the committee which recommended the new system.

Reading a letter aloud to a group, broadcasting it on the air, showing it on a television screen, or posting it in a public place, may constitute publication in a legal sense.

'Pink Panther' To Strike

Interest in drama is alive and well from all appearances at West Junior High School, where rehearsals have been going on for the presentation of 'The Pink Panther Strikes Again,' next weekend.

Over 150 students participated in pre-audition classes and vied for the roles which vary from the bumbling French detective to thieves, assassins, a female impersonator and assorted underworld characters.

Robert Mattedi has been cast as the inept Inspector Clousseau. He is joined by his former boss, Dreyfuss (Steven Willard) his butler, Cato (Steven Kang) and Olga, a beautiful Russian agent (Laura Cervone).

Jo Burkholder holds down the responsibilities of stage manager. David Kaplowitz is lighting supervisor, Lance Lee, sound engineer and Martine Kelley is in charge of properties and scenery.

The play has many scenes in various locales such as castles, lobbies, taverns, etc. Six pink panthers are in charge of scenery changes: Brenda Baker, Laura Cox, Martine Kelley, Jennifer Kovner, Julie Livingston and Kerry Walsh.

Special effects, such as the Doomsday Machine are being supervised by Jacob Meunier.

The two-act comedy, adapted by William Gleason from the film by Blake Edwards, is directed by Mrs. Doris Bernardin, English and Drama teacher at West Junior High.

The play will be presented Friday and Saturday, Jan. 28 and 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the school auditorium. A special free performance for grandparents and senior citizens will be held Wednesday, Jan. 26 at 2:30 p.m.

Starting A Business To Be Discussed

Starting a small business or organization will be the topic discussed at the Thursday, Jan. 27, meeting of the Andover-Georgetown Branch of the American Association of University Women to be held in the function room of the Lawrence Savings Bank, Shawsheen Square, Andover, at the intersection of Rtes. 133 and 28.

A panel of speakers will share their recent experiences, concerning financial and legal needs, location, the organizational structure, publicity and more.

Nancy Perkins of Merrimac, who runs a farming enterprise and craft business with her husband, Walter, former principal of South School, Andover, will be one of the speakers. The Perkins have the added benefit of turning a hobby into a future retirement business, called "Green Tree Farm Studio," located on Brush Hill Road, Merrimac. Nancy grows and sells dried flowers, herbs and arrangements and lectures and gives workshops.

Marlies Zammuto of Andover, a director of the Mother Connection, a non-profit organization which provides information, resources, support and recreation for parents and children will speak about forming an organization. The Mother Connection also provides the opportunity for women to share their expertise and interests. Members receive a monthly newsletter and access to many educational and social events. A grant from AAUW's Educational Foundations Program provided the funding to begin the Mother Connection.

The third speaker will be Barbara Bhiladvala, one of the women who organized "The Looking Glass," a non-profit, after-school, creative enrichment program which arranges classes for pre-school children age four up to ninth grade students.

This meeting is open to the public. For further information about this program or the American Association of University Women, call Barbara Bhiladvala, Andover, or Carolyn Bellefeuille, West Boxford.

'A Long, Tough Storm' That 'Wasn't That Bad'

By John P. Sawyer

Last weekend's major snow storm, which dumped about 1½ feet of the white stuff in what has been up until now a snowless winter, resulted in abandoned cars and skidding accidents on Andover streets, a power outage in West Andover, and was described by Public Works Director Robert McQuade as "a long, tough" storm.

But McQuade reported that "everything went fine" from a snow removal point of view, and Police Chief James Johnson noted that, all things considered, the storm "wasn't that bad."

Although there were "quite a few abandoned cars" and numerous accidents resulting from cars skidding on slippery roads Saturday, most streets remained open, according to Johnson. He said few motorists ventured out into the brunt of the storm Saturday night, and most residents had their cars off the streets to facilitate snow plowing.

About 200 homes in West Andover lost electrical power for about one and one-half or two hours Saturday evening, he said. School was cancelled Monday.

The storm's long duration kept public works crews busy. They started off by sanding and salting slippery roads, then plowing, and Monday the sanding process began again, according to McQuade.

He said snow in the downtown area was to have been picked up Tuesday and Wednesday nights and brought to snow dumping areas.

The cost of the storm is expected to run somewhere between $20,000-$30,000, according to the public works director. But because this was the first storm of the winter, snow removal costs are running far less than usual for the season. Usually, about $50,000 or more has been spent by now, he said. The town's snow removal budget is $175,000.

Tucker On Education, Insurance Committees

Newly-elected State Representative Sue Tucker announced that she has been appointed to the committees on education and insurance in the legislature. The Representative stated that she is pleased with these assignments because they deal with diverse issues, many of which are extremely important to her constituents.

Tucker is particularly interested in the funding and quality of public education. "Chapter 70 money, computer literacy, vocational training and financial aid for higher education will all affect employment and the quality of life in Massachusetts for decades," Tucker said.

Although Tucker was not appointed to the Committee on Natural Resources, she plans to continue her work in this area through the Environmental Lobby and the Energy Development Caucus. In fact, getting the Hazardous Waste Superfund legislation through the House is one of her top priorities.

Representative Tucker was part of the coalition which put through a rules reform package in the opening session of the House, including the permitting of T.V. cameras in the chamber and an end to all-night sessions. "Hopefully these reforms will prevent the kind of abuses which occurred late in the last session. Certainly the feeling is widespread among the freshman legislators that citizens are demanding higher standards of accountability," Tucker stated.

Next week Tucker is meeting with Gov. Dukakis to discuss the needs of the district. Included on her agenda are the I93 Interchange, securing the off-street parking grant for Andover, and targeting Lawrence for housing and crime prevention programs. Citizens wishing to convey their concerns to Rep. Tucker are welcome to call or write.

Andover Businessmen To Develop Block Into Mall, Offices

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Purity Supreme will sell its downtown Heartland Jr. building to two Andover businessmen next Monday — and town officials are hoping the sale will result in an attractive new downtown shopping area.

Robert Webster and Robert Finlayson of Musgrove Realty Trust plan to buy the building, Webster told the Industrial Development Finance Authority Monday night, but "we honestly don't have all our plans together," he said.

The new owners will probably renovate the former grocery store into retail space, "done well," possibly with office space upstairs, Webster indicated.

IDFA Chairman Lawrence Spiegel emphasized that the building would not be used as a bank, a hairdresser's salon or doctors' offices.

The partners will seek $2 million in state CARD (Commercial Area Revitalization District) financing to help renovate the building. They are scheduled to meet with the IDFA Friday afternoon with more detailed information on their plans.

The store is located on Bartlet Street, directly behind the Town Hall parking lot. Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said that with the prospect of new retail space in the Heartland building, town officials are now "looking to put that whole back area into a mall-type arrangement."

Webster and Finlayson may "donate or exchange" some of their new property to the town for planned parking expansion behind Town Hall, the manager explained — but he added that if the Heartland sale falls through, "we'll just lose some parking."

Plans are vague at this point because the sale "has moved incredibly fast," Mahony noted; the grocery store closed its doors on Christmas Eve, less than one month ago.

Spiegel was enthusiastic about the proposal, saying the new retail center could be "just a super extension of the central business district — really nice."

New state Representative Sue Tucker, an IDFA member involved with central business district planning for several years, was more cautious, asking for more specific information on Musgrove Realty's plans.

Webster assured her that the new shopping center will not detract from the downtown area, but improve it: "We want to do it right."

Shawsheen Building On Block With $300,000 Price Tag

As of Monday, the Cardinal Cushing Gymnasium on Haverhill Street remains on the market — with a $300,000 pricetag — but no buyers have come forward.

A potential buyer was expected to attend a meeting of the Industrial Development Finance Authority Monday night to discuss applying for CARD (Commercial Area Revitalization District) financing, but failed to appear.

According to a local official, the building owners are asking $300,000 for the brick building — which they purchased from the town for $60,000 in 1980. The building currently belongs to Drs. Sanford Kaufman and Joseph Guerrara.

Formerly the Crystal Ballroom and at one time part of the Sacred Heart School, the building stood vacant for a number of years while it belonged to the town. Proposals to sell it to the Andover Companies for storage space and to a day care center were both rejected when Shawsheen Village neighbors protested.

Annual town meeting authorized the sale of the building in 1980. The two doctors had planned to renovate it into professional office space, and were instrumental in winning state CARD designation for the area. Small businesses in a CARD district are eligible for low-interest revenue bonds to help upgrade their property.

Kaufman and Guerrara had applied for Industrial Development Finance Authority revenue bonds more than a year ago but never received the financing, according to Andover IDFA Chairman Lawrence Spiegel.

Committeeman Robb Will Seek Re-Election

Donald W. Robb

Committee-Finance Committee-Board of Selectmen study of the town's financial model, and is the School Committee representative in the on-going contract negotiations with the Andover Education Association, which bargains for the teaching staff.

Robb is a graduate of Ohio University and has had experience as a teacher in both junior high and high school. For the past 15 years he has been in the publishing business and is presently vice president of Mastery Education Corporation of Watertown.

In his spare time he is a volunteer at the Andover Y.M.C.A. and sings in a church folk group.

His special areas of interest on the School Committee, he notes, are curriculum and budgeting. Commenting on his plans to seek re-election, Robb observed, "During the last three years we closed two schools, updated our secondary facilities and made real strides in improving our financial management."

For the next three years, I would like to see an emphasis on revamping our instructional program to maintain our standards of excellence while we comply with our fiscal realities. Robb added that he believes it will be possible, through imaginative planning, to achieve both goals.

Robb and his wife, Victoria, live at 3 Tobey Lane with their six children. Carol, 18, is a recent AHS graduate; Abby, 16, is a sophomore at the high school; Mary, 14, and Patrick, 13, are students at Doherty, while Kate, 11, and Adam, 8, attend Bancroft.

Andover School Committeeman Donald W. Robb has announced his decision to seek re-election to a second three-year term on the board. Robb was originally appointed to fill a vacancy on the committee in 1979, and won election to a full term in 1980.

For the past three and a half years, Robb has also served on the School Building Committee responsible for overseeing the renovations and construction at West Junior High School, Doherty Junior High School and Andover High School.

He is currently involved in a joint School

Raytheon Plans $20M Addition To Plant

Raytheon Company plans to build a $20 million addition to its Lowell Street plant, and the company has won preliminary approval from town officials for $1 million in low-interest financing to help pay for the addition.

In years to come, up to 225 new employees will be hired to staff the 115,000-square foot addition, Raytheon representatives told the Andover Industrial Development Finance Authority Monday night at Town Hall.

After a brief discussion, IDFA members unanimously voted preliminary approval of the company's request for $1 million in low-interest industrial revenue bonds. Company officials will now apply to the Board of Selectmen for their initial approval at a Feb. 7 public hearing.

According to Douglas Greetham of Raytheon, the addition will be a separate building, located next to the existing plant on the southern portion of the Lowell Street site. The "very modern" design will feature "pewter-colored" aluminum siding and "a lot of skylighting," Greetham said.

The company will design, develop and fabricate integrated circuits in the addition, he indicated. About 125 employees will be hired when the addition is first opened, and 75 to 100 more will be added "over a period of time."

Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore told the authority that his staff has been reviewing Raytheon's plans for the addition, including 145 pages of documentation, for more than six months.

Town officials have "no problems" with the plan, the director said: "It's a very felicitous arrangement."

IDFA Chairman Lawrence Spiegel noted that "we've been good friends with Raytheon in this town for many years," adding, "We've taken their tax money gleefully."

If the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Authority agrees to grant Raytheon $1 million in industrial revenue bonds — with Andover's approval — the company will fund the remaining cost of the addition itself.

The Condos Are On The Horizon Again

It is interesting to view the reappearance of a proposed condominium development in the Ballardvale area once again.

The same developers who proposed the multi-family dwelling units for Andover Street and Argilla Road in 1981, have returned to the town with a somewhat similar proposal for the South School area.

The proposal in 1981 faced a special and a regular town meeting and was rejected on both occasions.

And, while the opposition may have been somewhat personal on that occasion, there is every reason to expect that there will be similar feelings engendered by the new presentation, even though it has been moved to a different neighborhood.

There is, of course, some concerns by local officials and residents about the development of condominiums in the community.

When the condo proposal was first offered to the town, it was probably done in a rushed manner. It was presented at a special town meeting in December, on the premise that options had been exercised on the Andover Street land, and a decision was needed before the provisions expired.

Admittedly, the matter was rushed, and the town rejected the proposal, with the planning board at that time promising that the matter of condominiums would be addressed at the annual town meeting. This would provide ample time for the town to come up with a bylaw regulating the construction of multi-family units in Andover.

The regular town meeting in the spring of 1981 saw the presentation of the proposed bylaw and the insertion of the Andover Street plot to be considered for such zoning.

After considerable debate, which was aimed primarily at the development, rather than the bylaw, the proposed zoning provision was rejected, and, naturally, with it, the allowing of the condo development for the Andover Street area.

While the thought still continues that the condominium proposal would have been a better use for the Andover Street area than the single family units which are now under construction in the area, it remains even more regrettable that the town did not at least opt for the multi-family zoning proviso.

The bylaw seemed a good one, and adaptable to Andover. It would have allowed municipal officials to exercise strict control over such developments.

Andover has gained a reputation over the years of adopting and enforcing stringent building laws, much to the consternation of builders, but to the advantage of the town and its present and prospective residents.

The bylaw proposed would have insured continuance of that reputation.

The current proposal before the planning board for the Woburn Street-South School area, seems to emphasize the advisability of bringing back to town meeting such legislation as is necessary to exercise control over multi-family developments.

It is obvious the matter of condominiums in Andover will not disappear.

There are already several units in the community through conversion of former apartment complexes. More of such activity can be anticipated as other apartment unit owners find the conversion more profitable and desirous.

It, therefore, makes more sense to have regulatory provisions in place and ready to be applied, than to anticipate that someday a developer could find a loophole through which such units could be placed somewhere in Andover, which is conceivable.

Protection for the town in anticipation of a problem certainly is more advisable than having to make decisions in haste. The opportunity seems appropriate now to move again toward providing some condominium construction control.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — January 1908

Two Phillips Academy teachers walked to Boston one day this week in five hours and five minutes. This included a ten minute rest in Medford for refreshments.

"Mike" Cashman has returned to town after several weeks' stay in Ohio where he has been playing polo.

A stereopticon lecture on the campaign for the prevention and cure of tuberculosis will be given at the Town Hall next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock by Dr. John B. Hawes, of Boston, one of the pioneers in the work of the tuberculosis classes and now secretary of the State Commission.

Evidence accumulates as the days go by in the wake of the recent financial panic the country is face to face with an "unemployed" problems of serious proportions. For several weeks there has been a steady influx of idle men in all the great centers of population, overtaxing the various agencies of charity, while local labor bodies have taken notice of the clamor for relief in their own ranks.

50 Years Ago — January 1933

More than half of the entire stock in The Andover Shop, Inc., at 127 Main street was stolen early Friday night in a carefully planned but bold break. Three men and two machines were involved in the robbery, according to the story told police by a local woman who saw the clothing being removed from the store.

Next Wednesday evening there promises to be a lively session at the Town house when the voters of Andover will gather to take action on several special articles concerning the state school, Sunday movies, and gravel road work. The Taxpayers' association has come out against all the articles because it disapproves of special town meetings where no emergency is involved.

Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, for 30 years headmaster of Phillips academy, has resigned because of ill health, according to an announcement made at the meeting of the Trustees Sunday. Dr. Stearns has been ill since a year ago November, and is at present in Nice, France, attempting to recover.

A 15-year-old junior at Punchard, Charles W. Barrett of 25 Enmore St., has recently been granted a three-year license for amateur radio station WIFOH by the Federal Radio Commission. Formerly licenses were issued for but one year.

25 Years Ago — January 1958

Town budgets and special articles, worth a combined $3,544,282, will stare Andover voters in the face when they attend town meeting March 8. The budgets themselves, listed by the Finance Committee at $2,541,678, are nearly half a million dollars higher than 1957 appropriations. And the special articles, including requests of officialdom as well as private citizens, total a whopping $1,002,604.

Water Department Superintendent Donald Bassett stated Tuesday that the Board of Public Works has voted to allow residents of the town to wash their cars. Bassett said the step was taken because salt splashed onto the cars during the winter can do a lot of damage if not washed off.

A Planning Board motion to adjourn, during that body's meeting, blocked consideration of a motion to reconsider supporting acquisition of land for off-street parking. The Board officially endorsed, in a general way, the plan to revamp the municipal property in the center of town. But when members John Cole III and Virginia Hammond were trying to phrase a motion about off-street parking, Member Frederic O'Brien moved adjournment. Member Donald Thompson seconded the motion and it was accepted by Chairman Lee Noyes.

10 Years Ago — January 1973

Town Meeting, 1973, may be another lengthy session if the number of articles of varied interest is any indication. With the deadline for filing articles having passed last Friday, close to 60 items were submitted to the town clerk, with the selectmen now examining them prior to enumerating the items.

A public hearing on the closing of the Chandler Road landfill site will be held by the State Department of Public Health, Monday, Jan. 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Doherty school auditorium. Richard Power, of the environmental health department, reported Wednesday that the hearing will deal solely with the state's order to rescind the assignment of the Chandler Road location as a dump site.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

The Feb. 10 trip to Hilltop House and Peabody Shopping Mall still has room for you. Transportation to and from will cost $6 and luncheon cost will be determined by your selection from the menu. But, this is a lovely opportunity to get out from under the winter doldrums. The mall is all undercover now and pleasant in spite of winter weather. Stop by The Haven and let them know you want to be included.

If you can get down to the center by 2 p.m. this afternoon, you will be in time for the meeting of the Haven Associates. They always have fun—and refreshments, too.

There will be no hot lunch next Monday, Jan. 24, because of a half-day at the schools. Meals on Wheels will not be affected.

You can make an appointment for income tax assistance or fuel assistance application by calling the senior center now. They are ready to help you.

Would you believe it is time to think of flowers? Or is it always time to think of flowers, and more especially when we are knee-deep in snow.

The senior center staff has arranged a trip to the Boston Flower Show March 15. There will be luncheon at the Boston Harbor Lights Restaurant (choice of roast beef or baked schrod) and then on to the flower show. Total cost is only $18. Bus will leave Andover about 10:15 a.m. and be back by 4:30 p.m. These trips usually fill up quickly, so please sign up now so that you will not be among those left out.

Two new and exciting evening trips are planned for your enjoyment. First: March 19 at Boston Symphony Hall, a program by The Chieftans, leading interpreters of Irish Folk Music. Their music is a course in Irish history in song. Buses will leave Andover about 6:45 p.m. and return about 11 p.m. Cost for the evening is $20—and that includes orchestra seats. Especially appropriate at St. Paddy's time.

Second: March 26, a trip to the Boston Opera House for the performance of Hal Holbrook in Mark Twain Tonight. Buses leave Andover at 6:45 p.m. and return about 11 p.m. Cost for orchestra seats and transportation is $22.

The Jan. 25 mini-clinic will be held at Frye Circle. The location of the mini-clinic does not limit those eligible to use the service. Appointments through the Health Department are open and are made (475-7820).

Office Building Proposed For Shattuck Site

Unless the Zoning Board of Appeals objects, a five-acre parcel next to Valle's Steak House off River Road will become the site of a new two-story, 60,000-square foot office building.

Joseph Hoffman told the Industrial Development Commission Monday night that he and his partner, Irving Winn, plan to call the new building "Shattuck Office Center" in honor of the Shattuck farm, which once existed at the site.

However, the ZBA must first grant a setback variance: zoning laws require a 150-foot setback, but the site includes a setback of only 50 feet. Hoffman said it is "not unusual" for the zoning board to grant such a variance.

The industrial commission voted to support the proposal, and to send a letter of recommendation to the ZBA. Hoffman, who is a member of the commission, indicated that the plan will probably come before the zoning board next month.

The two partners have an option on the site, which now belongs to Valle's, Hoffman explained. It is located next to the restaurant parking lot, behind the Amoco gas station, and extends to a triangular-shaped lot that belongs to Arkwright-Boston Insurance, developers of the nearby industrial park.

The brick, Colonial-style office building would share the same entrance with Valle's, but the partners would add new landscaping and 207 parking spaces, according to Hoffman.

"We believe there is a need" for office space near the industrial park, Hoffman explained, adding that the building would "upgrade the general area." He said there was "no other useful purpose for the land."

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the industrial commission that the new office center would be "a big improvement" to the area.

As an alternative to office space, Hoffman and Winn had considered building a neighborhood shopping center with small convenience stores on the parcel, but "ruled it out," Hoffman indicated.

The partners were scheduled to appear before the Planning Board Tuesday night, but cancelled out because they were not ready for that presentation, he added.

Extension Granted Tambone Office Plan

The Planning Board has agreed to grant the Tambone Corp. an extension of several weeks on plans for an office and research park on a 31-acre site off River Road.

The planners had a Jan. 21 deadline for approving Tambone's preliminary plans for one portion of the site, but Tuesday night they voted to extend their deadline to early March at the developer's request.

Tambone must make major changes in his plans following a Conservation Commission decision to deny his proposal. The commission voted on Tambone's plans two weeks ago.

Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore said yesterday that Anthony Tambone, Jr. will meet informally with the commissioners on Feb. 1 to discuss their recommendations for revisions. The commission has also requested that the developer submit additional information.

The developer had planned to divide the site, located near the intersection of Old River Road and River Road, into three lots, and build four buildings totalling 300,000 square feet. His original plans called for filling large portions of wetlands, which make up 24 percent of the total site.

Also on Tuesday night, the planners voted to approve definitive plans for the four-lot Pond View subdivision (formerly called Maple Tree Terrace), owned by William and Carol Strout. Located off Hemlock Road in the Wild Rose Drive area, the five-acre subdivision will include the Strouts' existing house and three new homes.

Physicians in earlier times advised patients with large ears to eat vegetables and "bulky" foods, while those with smaller ears were advised to eat meat and more "concentrated" foods.

Laboratory Diversifies

Charles River breeding Laboratories, the world's largest producer of laboratory animals—specially-bred rats, mice, hamsters, guinea pigs and primates—have diversified into the realm of laboratory testing services and established Charles River Biotechnical Services Inc. (CRBS), a full-service health diagnostic laboratory which is the first to offer genetic monitoring commercially for the lab animal industry.

Housed in a newly-built 10,000 square foot facility based at Charles River's Wilmington headquarters, CRBS is equipped with state-of-the-art laboratory equipment and staffed by four full-time veterinarians and 26 technicians.

"CRBS will be offering total animal health assessment and genetic monitoring commercially," said Dr. Mel Balk, president. "If investigators have problems with their animals they have the opportunity to go to a lab to find the answers. We have the professional expertise in many disciplines which will enable them to answer their specific research problems and obtain the results."

CRBS personnel perform more than 350,000 bacteriological and serological tests annually, and for most samples can supply test results to customers within 10 working days and as little as five days on a priority basis.

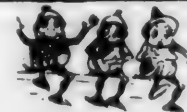

Services will also provide valuable and necessary documentation required for the Good Laboratory Practices Regulation, which requires a permanent record of animal quality at the beginning of a study.

Such information is vital to the validity and reliability of any research project.

In the future, CRBS will expand its services to include laboratory management consulting, isolation technology, telemetry and physiological monitoring and service to the biotechnology industry.

More than 1.2 million cubic yards of earth and rock had to be excavated from the site of Manhattan's World Trade Center before building could commence.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

Many of the concepts used in the modern, built-in kitchens of today were derived from the old fashioned hoosier. Big, boxy cabinets were the rage from their introduction in the late 1800's until World War II. They combined a food preparation area with many storage compartments including a tin-lined bread drawer, sugar and cornmeal bins, a built-in flour sifter, china cabinet and a recessed, porcelain-enamelled work counter. While these mass-produced kitchen aids are now mostly to be found at antique auctions, they still share a theme with modern kitchens. They claimed to cut kitchen work in half with their efficient use of space.

Nowadays you can have the convenience of a modern kitchen that looks like those of years gone by. A sure combination of luxury and style! WINDSOR KITCHENS invite you to visit our showroom here in Ward Hill at 1181 Boston Rd. or call 372-3444. We are here Mon-Thurs 9-5:30, Fri 9-8, Sat 9-5, eves by appt. and we'll be glad to discuss your needs and offer advice, ideas and suggestions.

The feature was taped in Andover last fall, and the timing of the telecast is appropriate, since the popular club is now celebrating its first anniversary.

During the segment, co-host Sarah Edwards will interview Fast Women founder Maria Iacobo, who is staff photographer for the TOWNSMAN and a devoted runner.

Gold Group At Halfway Mark

by Rick Harrison

Undefeated West Parish A and once-beaten Christ Church joined St. Robert's B in the winner's circle last week, as those three teams held down the top three positions at the halfway point of the Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Gold Division season.

West Parish A improved to 5-0 overall following its 34-22 conquest of St. Augustine's B at the West Elementary School gym, while Christ Church (4-1) trimmed St. Robert's A 32-35 and St. Robert's B stopped St. Augustine's A 33-20.

West A and Christ were scheduled to play one another earlier this week, but the game that would either create a two-way tie for first place or move West A two games ahead of the pack was postponed by the snowstorm.

Ryan Murphy was a defensive standout for St. Augustine's A.

West Parish A, 34-22

West A bolted to a solid 13-2 first-quarter lead as Kevin Henderson and Matt Gibson combined for 10 points, and the winners were able to keep St. Augustine's B in check the rest of the way.

The three-time defending Gold Division champs led 21-10 at halftime and 25-12 after three periods.

Henderson emerged as top scorer with 13 points, 10 of them in the first half, and Gibson was next in line with 8 points.

St. Robert's, West Parish Still Unbeaten

By Rick Harrison

St. Robert's B and West Parish remained the only undefeated teams in the Senior Division of the Andover Church Basketball League as SRB stopped previously-unbeaten St. Robert's A 42-34 and West Parish trimmed Christ Church 54-36 last weekend at the West Junior High gym.

In other Senior Division play, St. Augustine's A subdued Ballardvale United 30-22, St. Robert's C upended undermanned South, 40-19, and the scheduled game between Temple Emanuel and St. Augustine B was postponed by the snowstorm and rescheduled for the end of the season.

West Parish and St. Robert's B are now 4-0 overall. St. Robert's A stands at 3-1, Temple and St. Augustine B both 2-1, and St. Robert's C 2-2 as the division leaders. St. Robert's B, 42-34

The torrid outside shooting of Bob Dziadosz in the first quarter proved to be the difference as his 11 points sparked a 13-5 St. Robert's B run that was later padded to a commanding 26-11 halftime advantage.

Gary Marotta and John Perry led a third quarter St. Robert's A (3-1) comeback, combining for 10 points as the deficit was trimmed to 31-23, but the A-crew was unable to come any closer during an 11-11 fourth period.

Dziadosz, with 43 points in his last two games and 62 for the season, led all marksmen in the game with 21 points.

Kevin Byrne contributed 8 points for the winners (4-0). Chris Arserio pocketed 7, Chris Concegni 5 and Jay Labadini swished a free throw.

John Perry (57 seasonal points) netted 15 to pace St. Robert's A, while the Marotta brothers combined for 17 more as Cliff tossed through 10 and Gary 7.

Larry Middleton delivered a fourth-quarter basket and Steve Veilleux, Sean Melia and Ed Kupa were other St. Robert's A leaders.

West Parish, 54-36

West Parish (4-0) rode an explosive fast break to an early lead, and the co-owners of first place then traded buckets with undermanned Christ Church in the second half enroute to the 54-36 triumph.

Shane Smith and Jeff Poor combined to do most of the offensive damage on the break, with Smith controlling the boards and feeding outlet passes to Poor who collected all 16 of his game-high points within a five-minute span late in the first quarter and early in the second.

C-C, missing several key players, hung tough in the final two quarters with the hustling performances of Glenn Livermore and Keith Dauber leading the way.

Before the game was over 11 of the 15 West Parish players had scored, including double figure performances from Poor (16) and Rich Dunn with 10 points.

Hustling lefty guard Mike Lane contributed 6 points, Nick Coon 4, Shane Smith 4, Steve Redgate 4, Tom Rosbach and Bill O'Brien 2 free throws each, and other baskets were netted by Kurt Burzlaff, Scott Kelly and Chris Abell.

Smith also dished off eight assists and helped Burzlaff, Dunn and Rosbach on the boards. Lane, Redgate and Leo Gravel joined Coon with several sharp passes for assists, while Eric and Kurt Nickerson also played well and Rosbach was tough defensively.

Livermore (65 points) once again sparked the C-C attack with 15 points and also ripped down several rebounds.

Baseball Clinic At Lowell

The Lowell High athletic department will sponsor a baseball clinic on Saturday, Jan. 22, from 9 a.m. to about 3:30 p.m. at the LHS Fieldhouse.

The clinic, which is being coordinated by Lowell varsity baseball coach George Cunha and athletic director Al Mangano, is open to all Little League, Senior League and high school players and their parents.

YOU RARELY SEE USED SAABS FOR SALE BECAUSE THERE'S RARELY A REASON TO SELL THEM.

The longer Saab owners hold on to their cars, the more they like them.

But that's no surprise when you consider what there is about a Saab to like.

For superb performance, Saabs are equipped with a fuel-injected engine that combines excellent drivability with the economy of 4 cylinders.

When it comes to cargo space, Saabs have as much room as a station wagon—up to 56.5 cubic feet.

And as far as styling goes, Saabs have no sharp angular corners, so there's no cause for air turbulence. Even its rear end is shaped to give it efficient air breakaway.

So if you now find yourself interested in a Saab, come test drive a new one. You might not be able to get your hands on a used one.

Health

tained any school committee action has no bearing on the issue, because it is already a policy of the Board of Health.

The policy, voted by the Andover Board of Health on Oct. 18 as an administrative means to control head lice infestation in Andover's public and private schools, calls for the following:

Children certified by a school physician or nurse as being infested with head or body lice will be excluded from school immediately. The child will not be allowed back to school until he has certification from his physician, the school physician or the Board of Health that he can no longer convey the infestation to others.

In addition, a child will only be re-admitted to school upon an examination by the school nurse and the determination that the child is free of contagion.

Seifert told schoolmen there are "gaps" in school health service and asked them, should the administration simply meet regulations and standards, or shoot for "high standards" based on resources and people available in Andover?

He pointed out that as the economy suffers, so in many cases does personal hygiene, which can lead to a "classic problem."

Everett Penney, director of public health, said he also believes in "quality standards" and explained that many programs have been established in Andover that go beyond minimum compliance with codes.

He said pediculosis has been a recurring problem in town for the past three years he has held his position as health director. Outbreaks have ranged in size from seven or eight children up to as many as 30 children. Focus was placed upon control and preventive programs.

For example, letters about sanitation methods were sent home. The public health nurse has been available for home visits. Schools were inspected, and suggestions were made, such as spraying rugs and having children hang their coats on separate hooks instead of piled atop each other.

Usually, the situation was brought under control and limited to four or five children, but even so, often another outbreak in the schools would occur six weeks later, he explained.

Federal, state and other regulations on all levels are lacking in controlling such outbreaks, according to Penney, who said talk began last winter of considering a higher standard, which led to the regulation passed by the Board of Health.

Last December, an outbreak of 30 or 40 children occurred in the schools, and the traditional methods of handling it were used. On Jan. 3, after the school vacation period, children were screened for lice and six cases were found, Penney said.

They were sent home under the new regulations, according to the health director, who said no new cases have been found since then.

Symposium On Adolescents Scheduled

William E. Hart, principal, announced that the Andover West Junior High School Parents Advisory Council and the Andover Community Services is co-sponsoring a series of symposiums on the adolescent child.

The next program is planned for Thursday, Jan. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's new DeCesare Media Center on Shawsheen Road. Dr. James Garvin, director of middle school education at Gordon College in Wenham, will conduct a session on Looking at Early Adolescence—Implications for Parenting.

The program at Gordon was developed by Dr. Garvin who taught middle school youngsters before entering higher education. He is a parent of three children in this age group, and has a vast background of research on the characteristics of the 10-14 year old. Dr. Garvin has travelled throughout the country observing and working in a variety of middle school models. He is a member of the National Middle School Association and has been invited to their national convention on several occasions to do workshops. Dr. Garvin has written many articles, conducted workshops in several school districts, sponsored conferences on middle school education at Gordon College, worked with the New England League of Middle Schools, the Massachusetts Middle School and Junior High Principals' Association and was active on the Massachusetts Professional Advisory Committee to establish middle school teacher certification standards. He spends his summers directing camp for 1,600 youngsters. His experience in research, teaching and administration brings a strong leadership influence to this organization.

An invitation is extended to all parents in the Andover community.

Program For Eating Disorders

Dr. Donald Pugatch, 66 Park St., Andover has announced the opening of a program for the evaluation and treatment of eating disorders known as anorexia nervosa and bulimia. Until recently, little information has been available about the cause or treatment of these disorders.

Anorexia nervosa is self starvation due to an overwhelming fear of obesity. People with this disorder, refuse to maintain a minimal body weight, and have a disturbed body image. They exercise strenuously to burn off calories. In most cases their family and friends are unaware of the problem until the weight loss becomes severe.

Bulimia is a disorder in which the sufferer goes on eating binges which may last up to several hours. The excessive, rapid eating is generally done in a secretive manner. They consume large amounts of high-caloric food, stopping only when abdominal pain, self-induced vomiting, sleep, or interruption by others occurs.

It is estimated that about 1 in 250, at one time or another, will suffer from these disorders. 90% of those who suffer from these illnesses are females. The high risk group is between 12 and 21 years of age.

Recent research at McLean Hospital, for the first time, clearly suggests a link between biochemical depressive illness and the eating disorders. Depressive illness is now known to be a hereditary neurochemical disorder characterized by sustained periods of depressed mood, appetite and sleep disorder which may be satisfactorily treated with anti-depressant medication. Individuals with anorexia nervosa and bulimia often experience symptoms of depressive illness such as prolonged periods of depressed mood, loss of interest in usual activities, anxiety including panic attacks, insomnia, and various disturbances in appetite and eating behavior.

Now, in research studies, family trees of people with eating disorders reveal a high incidence of depressive illness that is much greater than that in the general population and equal to that found in the families of individuals with depressive illness. Thus, it appears that individuals with eating disorders have the same genetic background as individuals with depressive illness.

The most convincing test of the link between eating disorders and depressive illness has been the response to treatment with anti-depressant medication. Antidepressant medication works in 70 to 80% of cases with depressive illness with a return of normal mood, energy, sleep, appetite and enthusiasm after about 21 days. The research group at McLean tested antidepressant medication in a preliminary and then a controlled study of bulimia patients and found that they respond with a disappearance of their desire to binge. These preliminary studies show a high improvement rate with the drug Imipramine, an antidepressant medication. This provides the first evidence of an effective treatment available for eating disorder patients.

We are beginning to systematically evaluate the effects of antidepressants in the treatment of anorexia nervosa, and bulimia. Antidepressant medication may offer the first successful treatment for sufferers from these eating disorders who usually have been unable to find successful treatment in the past.

The program provides comprehensive evaluation and treatment for patients with eating disorders including individual, group, nutritional, and family therapy as well as family support meetings on a regular basis.

CAVEAT EMPTOR

"Caveat emptor" is a Latin expression meaning "Let the buyer beware." Its significance is probably more important in the purchase of real estate than in any other transaction because of the large amount of money usually involved. Boiled down to two simple words it means "Be careful!"

Sure, this is the age of consumerism. We have city, county, state, and federal consumer bureaus. There's also the Better Business Bureau, the FTC, and Ralph Nader. The media - newspapers, magazines, radio, TV - all give advice on consumerism, too. They all do a good job when you have complaints, or at least try to help you.

But the best way to avoid problems when buying something - especially a home or investment property - is still to forestall them by checking everything BEFORE purchase. By "everything" we mean all financial matters, clauses, papers, past histories, etc., as well as the property itself. If one seemingly minor factor is overlooked or forgotten or not even known about, it could result in a problem involving thousands of dollars. We, as Realtors, consider "everything". We have to, since our business and reputation depend on it.

She'll Try Again To Be A 'heartbreaker'

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Kristen Henderson of Argilla Road may not be a Heartbreaker now, but don't count her out yet: she just might be one next year.

Kristen made it to the final tryouts to become one of 24 cheerleaders for the new U.S.F.L. Boston Breakers last week. The 19-year-old Northern Essex Community College sophomore wasn't chosen as a "Heartbreaker," but she competed against some 300 hopefuls to make it to the finals — one of only 66 who did.

"It was all dance," she explains, "and I hadn't had any dance experience. I thought it would be more like cheerleading." Kristen was a high school cheerleader (Andover High, Class of 1981), and when her father heard about the Heartbreakers tryouts on the radio, she decided to give it a shot.

The preliminary competition was held in the University of Massachusetts/Boston gymnasium on Sunday, Jan. 8. There were more than 100 young women competing, and Kristen wore number 331 (the numbering began at 200).

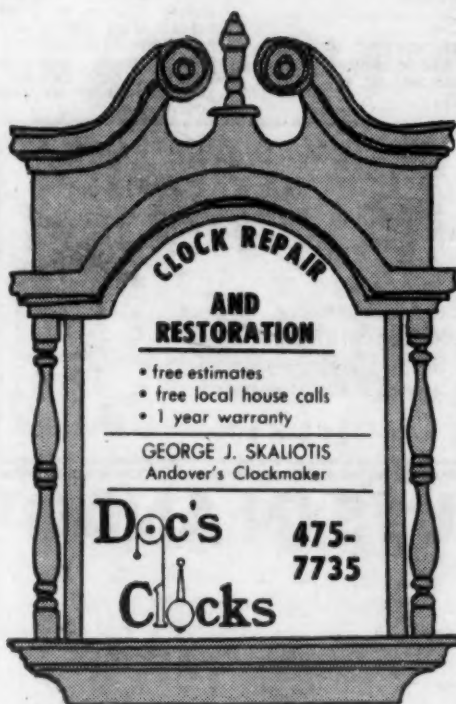

She was joined by finalists from preliminaries held in Springfield and Providence, R.I. at the finals, held in the Boston Marriot Hotel last Friday night. Judges included local celebrities Eileen Prose, Larry Glick, Norma Nathan, Barry Nolan and Elma Lewis.

While a choreographer taught the would-be cheerleaders the Heartbreakers' dance routine, the judges were interested to see "if you're a fast learner, how fast you can pick it up," Kristen notes. With her lack of dance experience, she was at a definite disadvantage against most of her competition — which included dance instructors and several former New England Patriots cheerleaders.

Both tryouts attracted reporters, photographers and camera crews from the Boston media, and Kristen was quoted in the Boston Herald last week after the preliminaries. Unlike the Patriots cheerleaders, the Heartbreakers will be paid for their performances — but most of the young women trying out admitted that they were really more interested in the opportunity to perform.

The whole experience was fun, Kristen says, and she's looking forward to trying out again next November. Next time around she'll be better prepared, "now that I know what I have to do. I might take dance lessons next summer."

Kristen is the daughter of Muriel and Lowell Henderson.
